ABOUT THE PRIZE

Christopher Bathurst QC (1934-2009) was a member of Fountain Court Chambers and a leading practitioner at the Commercial Bar in London who developed a substantial practice in Southeast Asia, particularly Singapore. He was regarded by many practitioners in Singapore not just as a formidable advocate and adviser but also as a friend and mentor. His cases include the leading decision of Caparo v Dickman [1990] 2 AC 605 and after that he developed a substantial Singaporean arbitration practice. As Viscount Bledisloe, Christopher was an elected hereditary peer, and a popular and energetic cross-bench member of the House of Lords.

This Prize seeks to honour his memory.

Sponsored by Fountain Court Chambers.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ADVISE IN WRITING

The Singapore Court of Appeal in Charles Lim Teng Siang v Hong Choon Hau [2021] SGCA 43 at [38] identified three schools of thought as to the legal effect of a “no oral modification” clause in a contract:<sup>1</sup> the “Sumption approach”, the “Briggs approach” and the “Comfort Management approach”.

Which approach is to be preferred, and why?

<sup>1</sup> For example, a clause which provides that no variation, supplement, deletion or replacement of or from this Agreement or any of its terms shall be effective unless made in writing and signed by or on behalf of each party
